SESSION 1. SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING AND MATHS

Dubrovin V.S. Minimizing Distortion in shaper of harmonic signal

Dubrovin Victor S.,
Ph.D., Associate Professor,
Ogarev Mordovia State University

The author considers a new method of forming a harmonic signal from a linearly varying triangular waveform. Recommendations on the choice of optimal coefficients values that minimize the harmonic distortion of generated harmonic signal are presented. We checked the results of calculations using the mathematical model in PSIM application.

Grechneva M.V. A brief introduction to plasma surface technology of steel in Russia

M.V.Grechneva
Vu Van Huy
Irkutsk State Technical University, Irkutsk

In recent years, plasma surface hardening received widespread use in the industry. Due to the high power density of the plasma source, the conditions ultrafast local heating and cooling of the surface of the metal layer, whereby the surface layer has a high hardness and core details is viscous and plastic that provides both wear resistance and high resistance to dynamic loads. In this paper, an analysis of the development of plasma surface technology in Russia was carried out.

Kameneva S.V. Statistical modeling and distinguishing of discrete distributions

Kameneva Svetlana Vladimirovna
Perm State University, Perm

In article are considered the universal models of discrete distributions which include simpler discrete distributions. These universal models are multidimensional distribution of Polya, multidimensional negative distribution of Polya, α - generalized Poisson's distribution. Studying of such universal distributions helps to facilitate the solution of statistical tasks, such as finding of unbiased estimates and estimates of maximum likelihood, calculation of estimates of probabilities of errors of classification. When we using universal models of distributions, it is stay possible to avoid the majority of difficulties arising in distinguishing of discrete distributions. In article on the basis of check of hypotheses about parameters of distribution of Polya and statistical modeling tasks about simpler distinction are solved the tasks about tests of hypotheses by one and several selections. With help of statistical modeling the calculation of criteria of check of hypotheses about parameters of discrete distributions is made and is compared the efficiency of the received results.

Phedotov V.P. The derivation of the law of Gutenberg — Richter from the exponential hypothesis

Phedotov Valery Pavlovich
Associate Professor, NRU IFMO, Saint-Petersburg

The empirical law of Gutenberg — Richter seismostation is a consequence of the hypothesis that the intensity of the next earthquake has an exponential distribution function

SESSION 2. SCIENCE FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Soldatova E.V., Pustynina D.D. LOHAS consumers – the drivers for sustainable business development

Pustynina Daria Dmitrievna

Student

National Research Mordovia State University, Saransk

Scientific adviser

Soldatova Elena Vladimirovna

Ph.D., Associate Professor, Department of Marketing,

National Research Mordovia State University, Saransk

The article describes the types of LOHAS consumers, trends for the appearance of the segment in different countries, its purchasing power. The analysis of the motives for responsible consumer behavior and interest of manufacturers to conduct environmentally responsible business is carried out. The environmental certification and labeling are presented.

SESSION 3. SUSTAINABLE AGRICULTURE AND ORGANIC FARMING; GREEN AGRICULTURAL TECHNOLOGY

Bozymov K., Sultanova A. Ways of increasing economic efficiency in beef cattle in Kazakhstan

Bozymov Kazybay

West Kazakhstan agrarian-technical university

named after Zhangir khan, Uralsk

Sultanova Assel

West Kazakhstan agrarian-technical university

named after Zhangir khan, Uralsk

Further development of beef cattle in Kazakhstan should be aimed at stable development, based on the use of innovative-traditional approaches. It is proposed ways to improve the organization of beef breed bulls on their own productivity and offspring quality evaluation

Kulbayev R., Duimbayev D. Seasonal changes in skin- hair cover and shedding of Kazakh white-headed breed bulls of different genotypes

Kulbayev Rukhan

West Kazakhstan agrarian - technical university named after Zhangir khan

Duimbayev Dulat

West Kazakhstan agrarian - technical university named after Zhangir khan

The article presents that the indicators of skin- hair cover of bulls from different genotypes were in the physiological norm. In winter, experimental bulls overgrown with thick, long hair with a high content of fluff, which confirms the relatively high adaptive plasticity of the body in changing environmental conditions. It was found that the season of the year had a great effect on the hair cover.

The effect of plant growth regulator furoalan on growth, productivity and the formation of physical and chemical indicators of quality of sunflower. Were established that the treatment of vegetative plants by furoalan has activated the growth and biomass accumulation in the stems, improved the photosynthetic activity of plants, leaf area increased, thereby increased their life expectancy and productivity of photosynthesis. Increased plants productivity, reduced their empty grain, increasing the geometric dimensions of the seeds and sunflower kernels, reduced seed husk content, oil content and increased oleic acid content in the oil.

Popova S.A., Kolpakova E.A. Modern state and main problems development of agriculture of the Volgograd region

Popova Svetlana Aleksandrovna

Volgograd state agrarian university, Volgograd

Kolpakova Ekaterina Aleksandrovna

Volgograd state agrarian university, Volgograd

In the article the analysis of main trends and features of development of agriculture of the Volgograd region over the eight-year period, considers the main problems of the agricultural sector.

Бозымов К.К., Жайназаров Н.Ж. Қызылорда облысы «берекет» шқ жағдайындағы қазақтың ақбас тұқымы сиырларының көбею қабілеттілігі

Бозымов Казыбай Караевич

Андатпа. Мақалада бассейн суында өсіріліп жатырған бекіре балығының Парасат АҚ-ның және Жәңгір хан атындағы Батыс Қазақстан аграрлық-техникалық университетінің «Аквакультура» кешенінің бассейн суларына жүргізілген зерттеу нәтижесі көрсетілген

SESSION 4. COMPUTATION, MODELLING AND SIMULATION

Sitnikov I.O. About one problem of calculation of the consumed volumes of water in billing system

Sitnikov I.O.,

Ph.D., Senior Researcher Ural Federal University

In the article problem of calculation of consumed volumes of water in municipal billing system is formulated. The recursive algorithm, which ensures solution of problem for the arbitrary tree is described. The represented algorithm is assumed as the basis of the program realization of billing system of the municipal service enterprise

SESSION 5. MEDICINE, LIFE-SCIENCE, BIO-MEDICINES

Masoud Kiani, Pankevych A.I., Hohol A.M., Kolisnyk I.A. Surgical Management of Nasopalatine Duct Cyst: A Case Report

Masoud Kiani

Pankevych Artur Ivanovich

Hohol Andriy Mikhailovich

Kolisnyk Inna Anatolievna

Ukrainian Medical Stomatological Academy

Nasopalatine duct cyst (abbreviated NPDC) is one of many pathologic processes that may occur within the jaw bones, but it is unique in that it develops in only a single location, which is the midline anterior maxilla [1,2,4].

Nasopalatine duct cysts are the most common non-odontogenic cysts of the mouth, representing up to 1% of all maxillary cysts [5]. These lesions are almost three times frequent in males than in females [6]. The maximum prevalence is between 45 and 60 years of age [7], often mistaken for an enlarged nasopalatine duct, NPDCs are of uncertain origin.

The spontaneous proliferation theory appears to be the most likely explanation (a number of studies have reported cystic degeneration in the incisor duct and on the midline of the palate in human fetuses) [8].

NPDCs are normally asymptomatic, constituting casual radiological findings, though sometimes (in 17% of cases) patients report pain due to the compression of structures adjacent to the cyst, particularly when the latter becomes overinfected, or in patients who wear dentures that compress the zone. The more caudal the location of the cyst, the sooner symptoms appears [3,7,15].

In terms of histopathology the epithelium of cysts is very diverse and includes a combination of stratified, squamous, non-keratinized epithelium, false stratified columnar epithelium, stratified columnar epithelium and simple cubic epithelium [8,12]. The connective wall of cyst may contain nasopalatine vessels and nerves as well as the glandular structures [6,15].

The appropriate treatment for these cysts can be enucleation and in order to prevent damage to the nasopalatine nerve the enucleation is done from the side of the palate [4,11].

If the cyst is large and there is a risk of loss of teeth vitality or creation of a nasal fistula in the mouth and sinus, the surgeon may choose the marsupialization method [7,13].

The rate of recurrence of this lesion has been reported 2-30% and malignant changes have also rarely been reported [1, 2, 13, 14].

Here we report the case of a 28-year-old male who developed a nasopalatine duct cyst in the maxillary central incisor region.

The aim of this study was to highlight the clinical presentation to describe the radiographic and pathological findings and to discuss surgical management of this entity.

A 28-year-old male with a complaint of an asymptomatic, nodular swelling located on the palate between the maxillary right and left central incisors since 6 months came to the Surgical Dentistry Department of Poltava Regional Clinical Stomatological Polyclinic. The swelling was associated with a dull aching intermittent pain.

Extraorally there was no detectable abnormality or lymphadenopathy. Intraoral examination revealed a well defined oval shaped bluish swelling measuring approximately 12×15 mm, located posterior to the palatine papilla in the midline. The swelling was fluctuant and non-tender.

SESSION 6. MECHANICAL, ELECTRICAL, ELECTRONICS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

Dubrovin V.S. Free-wheeling shaper of a sawtooth signal

Dubrovin Victor S.,
Ph.D., Associate Professor,
Ogarev Mordovia State University
Saransk, Russia

The author considers a free-wheeling method of constructing a shaper, which returns to its initial state almost instantaneously. The recommendations on the choice of the coefficients optimal values that provide high linear signal in the area of operation motion are given. The results of calculations tested with the use of the mathematical model in PSIM application

SESSION 7. PUBLIC-PRIVATE PARTNERSHIPS

Morozova N.I. Public-private partnership: in search of the optimal combination of public and private sector interests

Natalia Morozova,
Volgograd Cooperative Institute (branch)
Russian University of Cooperation,
Volgograd

This article discusses the prospects for PPP development in Russia, as well as showing the factors constraining mechanisms of interaction between the private sector of the state in order to increase the welfare of citizens

Terenina I.V., Mikhailichenko E.V. Logistic potential of interaction between the state and economic entities of the tourist infrastructure

Terenina I.V.
doctor of economic sciences, Professor
Don State Technical University, the Academy of Construction and Architecture.
Mikhailichenko E.V.
Senior Lecturer
Rostov College of the fashion industry, services and the economy

It is substantiated the necessity of interaction between the state and private sector for the new system of management of tourist infrastructure and the creation of the effective mechanism of using the tourist resources on the basis of the state and private partnership. It was analyzed the necessity of using the logistic conception

Vechirko O.N. The value of concession agreements in public-private partnership

Vechirko Olga Nikolaevna

V.I. Vernadsky Crimean Federal University, Simferopol

In the article the analysis of concession agreements, as one of the mechanisms of public-private partnerships. We investigated the results of the implementation of projects of public-private partnership in the Russian Federation, the advantages of concession agreements applied in various spheres of socio-economic activities. We consider the legal base regulating activity in the sphere of public-private partnerships

SECTION 8. BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

Babaev E. D., Zhuravlev A.Y. Free Innovation as a startup-transforming product of intellectual capital

Babayev Eugene Dmitrievich

Ivanovo Branch of REU them. G.V. Plekhanov, Ivanovo

Zhuravlev Arseniy Yurevich

Ivanovo Branch of REU them. G.V. Plekhanov, Ivanovo

The material discusses an original term free «innovation», approach of «open innovations», micro- and macro- approaches to innovation implementation.

Borodai V.A. Innovative technology - a strategic approach to corporate business travel

Borodai Vladimir Aleksandrovich

Don State Technical University, Rostov-on-Don

The article is devoted to outsourcing of business processes in corporate tourist services. Revealed the essential features of the corporate business tourism, defined the basic tasks of specialized agencies, serving corporations. Described features outsourcing agency corporate business travel, as well as the impact of innovative technologies on its competitive position

Dobroselskiy V.V. On the peculiarities of managers' professional performance

Background – within the corporate analysis to reveal tendencies of functioning of an economic complex of a number of regions of the South of Russia in recent years; to realize the potential of modernization of economy of Stavropol Krai; to prove influence of organizational and administrative innovations on activity and efficiency of use in practice of territorial management of institutes of economic development.

Methods. Realization of the dialectic principles of research within system and evolutionary approaches became a methodological basis of the solution of the tasks set by authors; creative synthesis of general scientific and specific methods of research is used: subject and object, structurally functional, comparative and other types of the analysis, and also method of expert evaluations.

Result. Realization of administrative capacity of bodies of the regional power of Stavropol Krai is mainly connected with development of a manufacturing sector of the region, and monitoring and management of regional economy become Basic Elements of creation of the diversified, effective and competitive environment focused on creation in the region of the industrial complexes which are releasing ready final products.

Conclusions. Organizational and administrative innovations in regions of the South of Russia have to be directed to realization of such strategic tasks as: activation of process of formation of regional innovative system, search of more effective forms of interaction with vertically integrated companies operating in the territory of the region (megacorporation-mi) which investment resources need to be involved in process of modernization and restructuring of a regional economic complex

Kharlamova E.E. The impact of the Institute of benchmarking to reduce transaction costs in higher education

Kharlamova Ekaterina Evgenevna

Volgograd State Technical University

The impact of the Institute of benchmarking to reduce transaction costs in higher education

Benchmarking as an institute to optimize transaction costs in the field of education is of interest in a need to improve the efficiency and quality of education. The article discusses the concept and types of transaction costs in higher education and their possible reduction on the basis of benchmarking institute. Considered the Russian and foreign experience in the application of benchmarking institute in higher education.

Kirilchuk S.P., Bondarenko E.V. To the question of evaluating economic efficiency of investments

Kirilchuk Svetlana Petrovna, Bondarenko Evgenij Vladimirovich

The article discusses the evaluation of economic efficiency of investments. The method of calculation used multiplier effect from inward investment in the Russian economy on the volume of national income. The analysis of the relationship between indicators: investment in fixed assets, the number of savings, the rate of inflation and the average cash income of the population. Recommendations to improve investment performance

Kotolupov O.A., Hrienko P.A. The creation of "free economic zones" as a prerequisite of overcoming regional conflictogenity

Kotolupov Oleg Alekseevich

Doctor of Economics, Professor,
Academician of the Crimean Academy of Sciences
Moscow

Hrienko Pavel Andreevich

Doctor of Social Sciences, Professor,
Academician of the Crimean Academy of Sciences
Simferopol

The paper substantiates the idea of creating "free economic zones" in conflictogenic regions as a prerequisite of overcoming socio-economic and humanitarian crises. Thus authors summarize the crisis management in more than fifty depressed regions

Kuldysheva G.K. The origins of the normative regulation of local government institution in the Kyrgyz Republic

Kuldysheva Gulsara Kenzheevna,

Doctor of Law, Professor, Faculty of Law, Osh State University.

On the basis of scientific methods of research analyzed the origins, formation and development of local self-government institution regulatory control in the Kyrgyz Republic

Kulyagina E.A., Maltseva A.S. The assessment of the borrowing capacity of loan debtor: theoretical aspect

Kulyagina Evgenia Alekseevna

Maltseva Alena Sergeevna

Novosibirsk state architect –engineering university, Novosibirsk

The article examines the notion "borrowing capacity", exposes different approaches to its rendering; the authors compare the notions "borrowing capacity" and "paying capacity" seeking to find out convergences and divergences of the notions. Studying theoretical aspects the authors come to the conclusion that borrowing capacity can be fully and accurately assessed with the analysis of financial, economic and legal characteristics of a loan debtor and of his reputation. The article also pays a significant attention to an information basis that is an integral part of the assessment of borrowing capacity of a loan debtor

Logvinov E. L., Omelchenko E. Y. Prospects of development of the tax audit in the Russian Federation

Logvinov E. L., Omelchenko E. Y.

Plekhanov Russian University of Economics,
Moscow

The audit plays an important role in the formation of an effective system of financial control, which explains the importance of identifying tax audit issues and finding ways to address them both for science and for modern practice

Moiseev V.V., Mikheeva V.A. Financial Management as an Effective Financial Tool for Managing the Organization

Moiseev Viktor Vasilievich

Doctor of Economic sciences, professor VAK

Miheeva Violetta Aleksandrovna

Kuban State Agrarian University, Krasnodar, Russia

The article discusses the role of financial management as a financial management tool on the example of the fast-growing company "Limited Liability Company "Kuban- brand".

Nikitin V.V. Import substitution and food security of Russia

Nikitin Vladislav Vadimovich

scientific adviser

Dyukina Tatiana Olegovna

Ph.D., Associate Professor, Department of Statistics, Accounting and Auditing
Saint-Petersburg State University

The article is devoted to food security and import substitution in agriculture of Russia. The significance of food security and import substitution policy for Russia, presents data for some indicators in agriculture and are the forecasts for the further development

Radchenko A.M., Arutyunyan Y.I. The experience of implementing the policy of "stable dividend" European companies

Radchenko Andrey Mikhaylovich

Background. The family is the basic unit of society. Men however are often denied such rights to being actively involved in parenting and fatherhood as they are being perceived by history and societies to be important solely as the breadwinner.

Methods. We used analysis of literatures, comparative analysis, method of historical analysis.

Results. Both men and women play a multidimensional role in family life, and stereotyped images of fathers' uniqueness are therefore misleading. Certain religions have promulgated the man as the leader and head in marriage, and as such has given the rights of final decision to the male. The more the father engages himself during the birth and postnatal period, the stronger is his attachment to the baby.

Conclusion. Men played important role by in fatherhood and parenting with significant influences on the child's and his partner's well-being, his own health, the integrity of the family as a whole and also a positive influences on the female counterpart
